

Helpful links to the NC Department of Public Instruction

<http://www.ncpublicschools.org>

North Carolina License Information – This link provides assistance on how to apply for a North Carolina teaching license.

<http://www.ncpublicschools.org/employment.html>

North Carolina Standard Course of Study – This link reviews the key content requirements for the various courses of study in the public schools of North Carolina.

<http://www.ncpublicschools.org/curriculum>

Education Initiatives in North Carolina – This section of the state’s website reviews key initiatives of the Department of Public Instruction. The state’s ABC accountability model, closing the achievement gap initiatives, student accountability standards, and the NC School Report Cards are explained.

<http://www.ncpublicschools.org/edinit.html>

Statistical overview – In this part of the website, the Department of Public Instruction offers a wide range of statistical information on the performance of the students and schools of the state.

<http://www.ncpublicschools.org/reportstats.html>

Teach4NC -- The Teach4NC section of the DPI website provides a tremendous tool to explain licensure requirements, detail job openings, and apply for positions.

<http://teach4nc.org>

UNC Lateral Entry, Licensure and Teacher Education Programs – This link reviews the various programs in North Carolina to pursue licensure.

<http://teach4nc.org/certification>

Salaries, Benefits, and Incentives – This section provides links to the state salary schedule and to the various leave, health, and retirement benefits offered by the state.

<http://teach4nc.org/salaries>

NC Benefits and Employment Policy Manual -- The Benefits and Employment Policy Manual offers detailed explanations of the various leave benefits of working in NC public schools.

<http://www.ncpublicschools.org/benemanual/>

State Retirement System -- This link details the extensive benefits of the state retirement system. <http://www.nctreasurer.com/dsthome>

National Board Certification – Teachers wishing to pursue National Board Certification will find this link helpful.

<http://www.nbpts.org>